Opium.

The police at the Station Weenesday were rejoicing in two very fine banls of opium. One lot was captured by officer Makaila near the corner of Queen and Nuuanu streets, the person who was carrying the swag from some place unknown to some other place unknown having dropped it on the street and made good his escape on seeing the offi-cer coming his way. This haul toted up 39 tins, valued at $300. The other lot was larger, being 180 tins of the value $1,400 and dropped up, not down, into the hands of the authorities like an apple falling from a tree, only that, according to Sir Isaac Newton's theory, the apple falls downward to the earth, and the opium fell upward from the sea. It appears that a boatman and a seaman from the Vandalia were rowing ashore close by the Australia when the oars got entangled in a submerged line, which the sailor began to haul in to see but it was and found at the end of it 180 tins of opium, of the value of about $1,400. Costom house officer Hartwell, seeing this from the woarf, hailed the boat, had it brought alongside, jumped in, and the opium was forthwith brought to the Station House, where it was delivered up to the Marshal.

From that place he made short stays up the Sound to Seattle, Tacoma and Portland, and thence by steamer to San Francisco. Mr. Whitney says that the result of the Hawaiian elections gives great satisfaction, and the people of the Coast appear to now thoroughly understand the political situation in our Kingdom, and rejoice with us in the establishment of a Government piedged to maintain the honor and good name of Hawaii, and to the supion of the corrupt rule of adventurers and incompetent men with which we have been cursed. A Creditable Work.

We have just received the Reports of decisions rendered by the Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islands: Admiralty, Criminal, Divorce, Equity, Law and Probate, from July Term, 1883, to October Term, 1886, inclusive, being Hawaiian Reports, Volume V., com-piled by Mr. William Foster, Clerk of the Supreme Court. The reports, including appendix, make a handsome well bound volume of 760 octavo pages. The appendix contains, among other matter, the New Constitution and a chapter "in memoriam" on the late Second Associate Jastice, the Hon. Benjamin Hale Austin, deceased on the 5th July, The work reflects great credit on th skill and enterprise of the compiler. It will be a valuable book of reference not only for the Courts but for the public generally.

Only One Round.

The Wailuku Police Court last week was the scene of an interesting trial. It appeared that at Camp 5, on Spreckelsville, the white employees of the plantation and the Chinese laborers have their meals together, and on a recent evening the close proximity and bombast of the Chinese generally almost led to a general row. One white man insisted upon more elbow room, and a Chinaman found his ribs in the way. John yelled defiance in the most approved plantation vernacular, and was not afraid of any blank Melican man in the camp, and suiting the action to to the word, hit out at his foe. "Bully for you, John," came from a dozen white admirers of pluck. Sonp ladling was suspended, and an adjournment carried to outside, where a ring was formed and John "shaped" at his man, but before he could quite make up his mind where he would make the first impression, he was

As soon as he could walk he went to Wailuku to get a warrant, the Melican man of course following suit, and the result was that the Judge fined them $4 each, and read them lecture upon disorderly conduct and the higher penalty that the law provides. It is to be hoped that the two races will be kept part during meals, or there might be something more serious happen.

Tuesday Night's Concert.

The concert in aid of the W. C. T. U. last Tuesday was one of the finest events that came on the boards for a long time. It was a munificent spread in musical viands. The Misses Joran seemed to be excelling themselves throughout. The wonderful genins and skill of these talented musicians was heartily appreciated by the audience, every number being raptrsously applauded. Be-sides these professionals, there were present to take parts, as previously announced, Miss Jennie Grieve, Mrs. Hanford and Prof. L. L. Van Slyke. The last named is better known as a scientist than a member of a Thespian Company. However, the Professor sung "Roll, Mighty Ocean" in a fine full voice, showing that his exploits are not by any means limited to the chemist's laboratory. Mrs. Hanford's piano accompaniments were exceedingly well executed.

Miss Jennie Grieve's Aria—"O Luce di Quest Anima," Donizetit, was one of the finest efforts of the evening. Miss Grieve possesses a well modulated voice of great power and compass, every note filling the room without apparent effort on her part. The concert closed with a serenade, "Sing, Smile, Sleep" by Mrs. Hanford, Misses Lula and Pauline Joran, with violin and piano accompaniment.

As regards merit, the concert was a splendid success, and as to financial results, the W. C. T. U. will probably be able to announce a respectable addition to their funds.

The Commercial Hotel Tragedy

The seaman referred to in an item that day as being "hauled in" with some commotion at 1:30 a. m. on Thursday was Thomas Lundy, whose name figures in that day's Police Court report and who is now in one of the Station House cells charged with assault and battery on Daniel O'Brien and Samuel Quin. The assault occurred in the Commercial Saloon, where the prisoner attacked Quin and O'Brien successively with a knife. The first named victim was badly cashed across the head and face. Lundy was captured on the esplanade by Captain Tell and officers Kahawai, Waipa, Pinehao and Puaahiwa. He appeared to have been at-tempting an escape by swimming out to his ship, the Mohican, his clothes being wet when he was taken.

Quin had a cut on the left side of his face across the cheekbone to the edge of the ear, a superficial cut over the right eye and a small cut in the edge of the hair.

O'Brien had a deep gash through all the tissues from the forehead across the temple and continuing across the right ear, cutting it in two and extending about an inch behind the ear. The incision looked more like that of a sabre wound than anything else. evidently placed with a very sharp knife and a blow directed with considerable force. A long superficial cut across the forehead and a small one about an inch and a half long over the left eyebrow completed the list of O'Brien's gashes.

It was at once decided to have the men removed to the Hospital.

Quin was able to walk and O'Brien was

CHARITY.

Full Account of the Portuguese Fair-

The following is a more circumstantial account of the fair of the Portuguese Chari-table Association, wound up on Friday after-noon, than any which has yet appeared. First comes a review of the different booths designed to represent the different national-

Beginning on the left, near the entrance was the Hawaiian, under the high patronage of Her Majesty the Queen, in which the articles for sale were principally native. The ornamentation of this booth, with a profusion of green foliage and flags elegantly draped, produced a most artistic ensemble, greatly to the credit of the three ladies who attended to it—Miss Mina Widemann, Miss Bernice Parke and Mrs. Ailau. This table rought in $125 05.

The next was the French, presided over by Mrs. Bouliech, assisted by the Misses J. Judd, Geeen and Winter, these three pretty young ladies being dressed in the picturesque cos-tume of the French "Arlesieanes" peasants. The drapery of this booth, formed by French flags, was joined a the control to the coat of arms of the great equals and the back-ground was adorned with the three colors, and the columns on each side were covered with beautiful festoons of superbillowers, supplied by Mr. Kidwell at the request of Mr. Cochelet, the French Commissioner, The table here was covered with an abundance of delicate articles, giving to the whole a true French character. The receipts here summed up $151.

The German booth, decorated with an ex-quisite taste and in a perfect national style, attracted great attention. The Imperial coat of arms was hung in the centre of the was the two headed eagle, whilst in front of sword in hand, represented Germany. The little lady was really beautiful, showing that in a few years she will be a splendid "Germania." If at that time the Fatherland asks her to watch on the frontier her sweet smile will stop the French invasion more effectually than the Krupp guns. The booth was in charge of Mrs. Lose and Mrs. Ehlers, assisted by the Misses Voss, Weber and Poppenberg, all dressed in true and pretty German peasant costumes, two of which were lately brought from Germany. This table realized the handsome sum of $203.

Next came, in charge of Mrs. Perry, assisted by Mrs. Rodanet, a Portuguese table with the national coat of arms. Here was found a specialty of clothing and dress arti-cles, made by the lady members of the Charitable Pertuguese Association, producing $72 80.

The English booth, presided over by Mrs. Wodehouse and Mrs. T. R. Walker, displayed the national flags and coat of arms, and was decorated in excellent style, worthy of the experienced patroness. The table, covered with a splendid display of pretty goods, was in charge of Miss J. Mist and the Misses Wodehouse, all three dressed in characters istic English costumes, which attracted the crowd and drew the attention away from the articles for sale, which, nevertheless, brought Adjoining this booth, and under the pat-ronage of Mrs. Merrill, were two American ronage of Mrs. Merrin, were two American ones united in one, under the protection of the American eagle, the brilliant colors of the stars and stripes enhancing the beautiful and tasteful decorations. The first table was presided over by Mrs. Cunha, assisted by the Misses Walker, McIneruy, Gilliland and Hare, the latter beautifully personifying the goddess of Liberty, Mrs. Cunha collected from her table a total amount of $225.

The second table was in charge of Mrs. Sass and Mrs. Bowler, assisted by the Misses Wall, Morgan and Clatk. An interesting feature at the table was the little George and Martha Washington, personated by Alice and Armand Wall. Miss Eva Putnam was charming in her "Ye Olden Time" Puritan costume. This table brought in the handsome amount of $420.

The Japanese booth followed, with the im-perial clover leaf, emblem of the Land of the Rising Sun; the well known white flags with red discs, and other characteristic decorations, testified to the taste and attention of the presiding lady. Mrs. Taro Ando, who was assisted by the Misses Finkler, Turton and knocked out of time and lay a helpless and doubled-up heap.

G. Robertson, dressed in a perfect and elegant Japanese fashion. The delicate national articles displayed on this table, and the ex-cellent tea served by the graceful attendants at once carried the spectator's mind to the fair lands across the sea and helped to produce a total of $62.25.

The Portuguese booth was on the right side near the entrance, and was completely covered with the white and blue colors belonging to this nation, whilst in a similar way the columns and ceiling were covered with the foliage of a national plant, the grape vine, between which shone the national coat of arms, all of which produced a pretty and delicate effect. In this booth, all the articles exposed were exclusively of Porta-guese make, and the great bulk of them vere embroideries such as are made by the women of the country. Here presided Mrs. Canavarro. assisted by Mrs. Gonsalves, Misses M. Cunha and R. Vierra, the three last dressed in an elegant and exactly true cotume of the country women in Northern Por-tugal, which by some were pronounced the most striking of the whole. The sum of $139.50 was collected by those graceful workers.

Near the door was found the dolls' table under Mrs. Nicholl, assisted by Miss Richy and other young ladies. This was fairy land for children, who could not tear themselves away from the splendid collection, that yielded $63.60.

Outside of all these booths, specialties were found in different parts of the room. Mrs. Unger presided at the scales, where stout and lean alike were obliged to show what their real value was. Mrs. Unger had also charge of the Portuguese gold purse, rewarded to the lady who should obtain the greatest number of votes. It was reserved by a great majority to Princess Kaiulant. In those two departments Mrs. Unger realized $194.25. Another attraction was the fish pond, to which there was such a rush of boys and girls that the Misses D. Dowsett and M. Von Holt, both dressed in a most picturesque fisherwoman's costume, were hardly able to work their hook and net quick enough to satisfy all the demanda, as is shown by the mar-vellous haul of money they made, $144.

The ten cent grab box was in charge of Miss Augusta Berger, who did such a brisk business, with the boys of St. Louis College, that in a few moments the whole collection was exhausted. Miss Berger also had the selling of taffy candy, which she carried on with success and credit, and her activity deserves the greatest commendation, as shown by her financial result, $45 15.

The flower table was in charge of Miss Tuck, assisted by the Misses A. Widemann, Ida Mist, and M. Rhodes, dressed in grace fol costumes, adorned with the Portuguese blue and white colors, which harmonized beautifully with the variegated colors of the flowery kingdom, from whom were derived

Miss Mossman attended to the soda foun tain, and was very attractive in her pretty fancy costume. This department collected

Rebecca at the Well, in the centre of the hall, was the great attraction of the evening. Miss L. Brickwood, attired in a most correct and gorgeous copy of the Biblical costume, following the example of her namesake, charitably dispensed cooling drinks to the weary and thirsty who thronged to the enticing shadows of the palm tree. Miss Brick-wood was assisted by Miss Humphrey, also in costume, and from this well the receipts of the fair were assisted by $57 15.

All were taken to the Police Station. Dr. Rodgers was telephoned and arrived in a few minutes, also Dr. Trousseau who was on for refreshments, and all credit to have the spot a few minutes later. their exertions. The ice cream was served by a bevy of young ladies, too numerous to name, all dressed in very pretty fancy costumes, which produced a most pleasing brought along on a stretcher, when the two doctors named dressed their wounds and left them about one o'clock a. m. effective appearance. This department brought in $191.05. Special mention must be made of Mrs. McDonald's successful work in the collecting of cakes and other dona-

The general aspect of the Armory was splendid, and it can be said that nothing equal to it had hitherto been executed in Honoidu. The ornamentations of the whole building in connection with the decoration of the booths, with their varied colors, the enormons profusion of palms, flowers, drap-eries and flags, produced a fairy ememble, enhanced by, fine display of Chinese lanterns, and by four chandeliers of electric arc lamps, kindly furnished by His Majesty the King. Thus the whole picture was gorgeously lit up and realized a view of some scene in the Oriental dreams, bringing in all the modern nations. Mrs. Boardman, president of the decoration committee, deserves, together

In all the fair realized a total amount of $2,801 75, which includes $259 50 of dona-tions. At the present time the bills of expenditure not being all in, it is not possible to make a correct statement of the expenses, though the net proceeds will certainly be handsome and satisfactory to all the kind ladies engaged in this charitable under with the ladies and gentlemen who assisted her, all the compliments of the community.

If it be added that the fund thus pro cured is intended to alleviate the inevitable sufferings of the widows and orphans, of the sick and invalid of a colony of poor people suddenly thrown in a foreign country, all the persons who kindly contributed by work and money, will surely feel that they have helped a most mentorious work. The more so, when it is remembered that the Portuguese colony have, on the whole, behaved in their adopted country probably better than would have done any other of equal numbers who could have been brought from Europe.

Before finishing, all due congratulations must be presented to the noble lady promo-ter of this splendid charitable festival, Mrs. de Souza Canavarro, to whom the Portu-guese surely owe a lasting debt of gratitude.
